Description

Join us for an engaging session with VIPA Group, a European leader in recycling and circular economy innovation. Discover how strategic management, leadership, and ethical governance combine to drive sustainable business success. Through this presentation, students will see how VIPA applies core management functions (planning, organising, leading, and controlling) within a sustainability framework. The company will share insights into its structure, leadership culture, and market strategy, illustrating how innovation, diversity, and ethics power global competitiveness.
